

QUIET WEDDING

SIR WILLIAM THOMAS AND MISS MAUD COOPER

Much local interest attached to the wedding of Sir William James Thomas, of Brynawel, Ynyshir, Glamorgan, and Crossways, Cambridge, and Miss Maud Mary Cooper recently Assistant Matron of King Edward VII Hospital, Cardiff, daughter of Mr and Mrs G. Cooper, of Hesse House, Bexhill-on-sea, which took place quietly at St Mary Abbots, Kensington, on Wednesday. The bridegroom has taken great interest in hospital work, and has been a generous supporter of hospitals in Wales. The Rev. Isaiah Roberts, M.A., Vicar of St. Mark's, Newport, recently of Cowbridge, officiated.

The bride was given away by her father. There were no bridesmaids. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Cooper, Lieutenant A. T. James, Barrister-at-law, Royal Welsh Fusiliers and Dr. G. Jenkins (Medical Officer of Health for the Rhondda) accompanied Sir W. J. Thomas.

The bride wore her travelling dress of powder blue cloth, trimmed with silver, with hat and veil to match. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white heather, lilies of the valley and pink carnations. Miss Alice Cooper wore a dress of fawn cloth, trimmed with oxidised silver and pink.

There was no reception. The honeymoon is being spent at Torquay, South Devon. The bride and bridegroom will reside at Birchwood Grange, Penylan, Cardiff.

The dresses were made by Madame Davis, at Pasris House, Devonshire Road, Bexhill.

Madame Emilie Jarrett, Devonshire Road, supplied the millinery.

Bexhill Observer 14th April 1917 P1060363