

BEXHILL WAR HONOURS

Three names of local residents are in the list of appointments to the Order of the British Empire for services rendered during the War.

Admiral E.H.M. Davis, C.M.G., J.P., who organised the local Transport and Ambulance Column, and who has rendered valued service in connection with the Red Cross Society generally, is appointed an Officer of the Order, and the commandants of the Auxiliary Hospitals at Bexhill and Cooden, Miss E. M. Willson and Miss N. B. Bennett, are appointed Members of the Civil Division of the Order.

These honours will give much satisfaction to the friends of the recipients and the local public, and will be regarded as thoroughly deserved in each case.
